

World Child Cancer Collegiate Ambassador Program Join Us!

World Child Cancer USA is recruiting a select a group of college students and/or recent graduates to participate in a semester long program which aims to raise awareness of childhood cancer in the developing world while fundraising for World Child Cancer's projects. Collegiate Ambassadors will have a unique experience working for an international nonprofit (NGO) as well as the experience of creating media campaigns and fundraisers. Those who successfully complete the program will receive letters of recommendation as well as mentorship throughout the program from staff, Board Members and Ambassadors.

Collegiate Ambassadors are expected:

- To serve as Collegiate Ambassadors of the organization for the length of one semester (or during summer break) and actively work to promote its mission and raise awareness for World Child Cancer's work. Collegiate Ambassadors will receive training, materials, and will work closely with Board members and staff in their communities. Additionally, Collegiate Ambassadors will be profiled on the www.worldchildcancer.us website and will be promoted on social media.
- To participate in World Child Cancer's fundraising by creating your own unique fundraiser or collaborating with other Collegiate Ambassadors on a fundraiser over the course of the program. Collegiate Ambassadors are each expected to raise a minimum of $500.
- To promote World Child Cancer's mission online and actively participate in ongoing World Child Cancer campaigns by sharing posts and engaging in various social media platforms. A private Facebook Group for Collegiate Ambassadors will be a primary mode of internal communications.
- To spend a minimum of three hours a week on activities including organizing fundraisers, engaging in social media, engaging with other Collegiate Ambassadors around the country, and participating in meetings with staff members. Meetings will be held via video so we can have participation of all Ambassadors.
- To communicate with Staff members and proactively work to meet deadlines throughout the program. Collegiate Ambassadors must participate in regular communication with staff members to ensure continuous participation and engagement.

Applications are available at worldchildcancer.us under Get Involved. For additional information, contact Niki @worldchildcancer.us

World Child Cancer USA Collegiate Ambassadors are our volunteer outreach arm and represent our strongest supporters across the nation—individuals who dedicate their voice, time, and support to raise awareness and funds for children with cancer in developing countries. Collegiate Ambassadors work closely with our staff, Board members, and other volunteers and receive training and support as they advocate for children with cancer and raise funds in their communities.

To be considered for a Collegiate Ambassador position please complete this application below with a copy of your resumé and cover letter and return it to niki@worldchildcancer.us

Name:

Email:

Phone Number:

Address:

Level of education/ Field of study:

Handles for Instagram/Twitter:

How did you hear about World Child Cancer?

Why would you like to be a Collegiate Ambassador for World Child Cancer?

Describe any volunteer experience you have with other organizations, including student groups.

What skills or attributes do you have that could make you an effective Collegiate Ambassador? How could you contribute to our community outreach efforts?

Our Collegiate Ambassadors are active in promoting our work on social media. How do you use social media in your daily life and how could you envision promoting World Child Cancer?

Are you able to contribute a minimum of three hours a week for World Child Cancer activities? Can you commit to the length of the program? Are you willing to target raising at least $500 to support our programs?

What initial ideas do you have for raising awareness and funds for our work? Be creative.

Anything you'd like to add?

Please return this form with niki@worldchildcancer.us

your resumé to

We are excited to talk you about your interest in being a World Child Cancer Collegiate Ambassador!